

"It's time for a new direction on the Urban County Council. I want to serve our community by bringing sound business ideas to local government."

– Ed Lane

A "Citizen Legislator"

Ed Lane is not a politician. As a "citizen legislator," he seeks to bring more than two decades of business experience to the Urban County Council. His historical perspective, passion for the Bluegrass, and business expertise will help the Council prioritize and solve the critical issues facing Lexington.

Ed Lane sees important issues that need to be addressed:

- Promoting economic development and technology – as a part of Commerce Lexington – that creates employment opportunities for our citizens and children
- Prioritizing spending of local tax dollars; eliminating waste and managing the budget like a business
- Maintaining Fayette County's farms as a vital component of Lexington's economy
- Paying fair compensation to public safety officers and employees of local government
- Reducing congested roadways with better planning
- Building adequate sanitary and storm sewer systems
- Improving the quality of K-12 and postsecondary education throughout the region

Fast Facts from Ed Lane

"The population of Fayette County has increased 33 percent since I moved to Lexington in 1980. By 2010, the State Data Center estimates that Fayette County's population will exceed 300,000 and the eight-county Lexington metropolitan area will exceed 560,000.

"Growth in Fayette County is going to continue whether or not we plan for it. Our citizens deserve leadership that takes a logical, business approach to addressing the future of our community and economic prosperity."

About Ed Lane

- Publisher of The Lane Report – a statewide business magazine published for 19 years in Kentucky
- Principal of Lane Consultants, Inc. – a commercial real estate professional services firm that provides brokerage, consultant and appraisal assistance to represented clients throughout the Midwest
- A resident of Fayette County for 24 years
- University of Georgia graduate with a Bachelor of Arts in journalism degree
- A University of Kentucky Fellow and serving on the boards of:
  - ◆ UK Sanders-Brown Center on Aging
  - ◆ Lexington Arts and Cultural Council
  - ◆ Better Business Bureau of Central and Eastern Kentucky
  - ◆ The Lafayette Club
  - ◆ Kentucky Chapter of the American Institute of Wine and Food

Vote for a New Direction in the Urban County Government
Vote for Ed Lane, 12th District

Primary: May 18, 2004 – General: Nov. 2, 2004

To volunteer, call Ed Lane for Council campaign offices at 244-3504.
www.edlane12th.com • edwin@edlane12th.com

